Q. Is it the best time to buy right now?

A. That's the million dollar question. Forecasting is never easy - particularly when it's about YOUR future. If you are thinking of re-locating, buying your first home, upsizing, or downsizing, consider doing it sooner than later. With strong persistence in economic and population growth combined with low interest rates, it's no wonder Greater Vancouver housing prices remain at an upward swing. The fact remains that when buying a home for yourself and your family, consider it a long-term investment - you are just not buying a house, you are buying a lifestyle. You can't put a price tag on that.
